Freedom of Speech and of the Press. We are just beginning to understand what the freedom of speech and of the press means in this country. Up to this time we have had no temptation to impose any restrictions on the press or on speech. We have been under no necessity to interfere with words. Our freedom was too well secured, and our Government was too firm in the hearts of the people to be shaken by speeches or newspapers. Hence we have had such fine maxim as these: "Error may be left free, if the truth is free to combat it." "Error or faleehoo propagated never destroys a Government; it is only the propagation of truth that is daygerous." "A free press is formidable to ty rants only." We have wondered at the establishing censorships of the press and proand papers. We didn't know their necessipropagation of certain opinious was dangerous to the security of the nation, and hence they put a stop to it. What would otherwise be allowable may become dangerous by be-haps, rendering them insecure.

All over Europe some subjects are not al owed to be discussed with too much free dom. There is only one country, Great Britain, that lets the press loose on all subjects. She has only reached that point of liberality after long experience. She has come to the onclusion that there is no danger to a good ause in a free press and free speech. She has ried repression and the utmost liberality, and adopted the latter as the wisest policy. It reuires wisdom and forbearance; but the British Government has reached the practical point that we have expressed in fine rhetoric, but can't follow so well in the hour of temptaion. Some years ago we would have thought It preposterous for the Government to decide what the people should or should not read. The people, we held, were sovereigns, and it is very preposterous if the sovereigns set men up to decide what they shall read; but then we had no necessities, and didn't see the philosophy of such action on the part of rulers We have learned something by passing through an ordeal that other nations have ong since gone through, and which most of them have not yet got out of. We can see how other Governments have suppressed free

The only freedom that is always secure is the freedom to support the party in power. No matter what monstrosity one preaches, it is all right if it is in behalf of the dominant party. It is a part of this freedom to enjoy the gratification of suppressing political oppo-that is never in danger. The real freedom of speech and of the press we have talked so much about, and world have so much applauded, we have got to learn. It is a hard lesson to learn; and we have not been well schooled in it after all our

In the days of the old republic, several rears ago, we used to amuse ourselves a great deal over the corner grocery and Lyceum zealots of the two sections. It was so pleasant to sit on the cabin guards and see them heaving and pulling, and struggling and swearing, all the while down on the steambeat deck. To say to our neighbor, that little fellow in the baggy trowsers is doing a pretty business in pulling the vessel assunder, or that elegant kid-gloved yeeum speaker on the north side will talk the craft smack in two in the middle. But when the heave and strain of both contending parties really appeared about to succeed in their endeavors to split open the ship, too many who were appealed to replied with the Irish guest, when told the tavern was on fire, "Tell the landlord I'm only a boarder"-"Tell the captain I'm only a pas senger." And so they heaved and pulled, and are still, with bullet and bayonet, heaving away, to break up the vessel; and our answer appears to be the same: "Oh,don't bother me; go ell Captain Lincoln." One or two efforts have een made; one or two persons have said to the Captain: "Don't you see you are prying away, and will divide the ship on the line of her keel?" But the only reply we have heard is: "Those other fellows over there won't stop, and they won't ask me to stop, and what can I do?" The person who makes the appeal has, therefore, very quietly walked off with a flea in his car; and the crowd have laughed over the Captain's pluck and the appellant's discomfiture as if it was a matter in which they had no interest. Very many are thoroughly disgusted with the manner in which things are conducted: have fallen into the belief that half a is better than no republic at all.

losf is better than no bread-half a republic Let us not despair, however. Behind the loud the sun is shining, and rifts of light penetrate to our storm-desolated country. Mr. Lincoln, let us be thankful for small favors, has succeeded as well nearly in dividing his party as he has in dividing the country, and, altogether, it is a very pretty quarrel as it stands. If the Republicans, by one single isolated act of patriotism, will take to kicking and cuffing one another instead of laboring to disjoint the timbers of the ship, who knows but maybe we may save the craft yet? A small modicum of wisdom is wanting, otpossibly get out of order.

We must say to these Southerners, who are wedging and splitting away at such a rate, "stop and tell us what you want short of foundering the ship, and if it is a fair thing, we will agree upon it." If we can't restore the Union satisfactorily to both sections, do let us have a little time to patch up another vessel in which we can reach the land. We believe if the Union is plit violently, without time for preparation, that neither section will have a plank left that will support them in the subsiding waves of the disturbed ocean. ing and fighting and marching, without internission, since it crossed the Repidan There is nothing that courage can do that army has not done. If they do not succeed, it will not be the fault of the soldiers. They have the disadvantage of being compelled to meet the enemy on his own ground, and almost on his own terms. There is, perhaps, not a place on earth as well fortified as Richmond and its environs. All that engineering skill can do has, doubtless, been done there. Yet this is the place to be ailed. The point of operations now is watched with the greatest vigilance, for it is important to the rebel Government. Besides, the enemy's forces are managed with great skill. Lee's generalship monstrous deeds of other Governments in is of a high order, and no advantage is likely to be taken of him. We hear by telegraph hibiting people from reading certain books that he is on generaled, but it is only by telegraph. The magnitude of the task our army tier; that was our error. Rulers felt that the has undertaken should be appreciated to estimate its heroic qualities. Its success may be but partial, but it has done so much that its high qualities as an army can be measured by other tests than more success, the usual rule coming unpalatable to the powers, and, perof estimating the qualities of an army and its leader. It has shown itself to be made of the best quality for pluck and endurance.

> Garret Davis, of this State, offered in he Senate the following resolutions, which were probably acted upon yesterday: Resolved by the Senate and House of Repre-sentatives, That three years of civil war, in which the enormous expenditure of blood and treasure has no parallel in the world's history, > and whose wide-spread rapine and diabolical cruelties have shocked Christendom, and which, from alternative success, has prosuced no essential results, prove that war was

Resolved, That if the people of America would have and restore their shattered Constitution, and avert from themselves and their posterity the slavery of a military despotism, of a public debt, the interest upon which all the avails of their labor and resources will never much, they must bring this war to a close. Resolved, That the President of the United States be, and he is hereby, authorized to pro pess a cessation of arms and sn amnesty to the suthorities of the Confederate States of America, with a view to hold a convention of the people of all the States to reconstruct the Union; and if that can not be effected, then that said convention agree upon the terms of a separation of the States without the further effusion of blood and of a lasting peace among speech and a free press. Whether wise or not it is natural. They have only done what there was a temptation to do, and what those in authority are apt to do under the plea of necessity.

The Senate will, at present, lay these resolutions, on the basis of equal and exact justice—"to all their rights." The latter course would have saved our free institutions, and no doubt eaved the Union; the former, only powerful for evil, finds its main astisaction in presenting us with daily spectacles of slaughtered countrymen, whose lives have been unlessly. what assurance have we tast, after years more of blood, we shall have a better opportunity to adjust this matter than we have now?

Jeff. Davis is learning something from the past. During the French Revolution the Jacobine could explain the depreciation of the nents. That is a freedom always palatable and assignats only by supposing it to be the work of the agents of Pitt, "the enemy of the human race," Jeff. Davis, it seems, has been imitating Pitt and sending his agents to New which the friends of civil liberty all over the York to effect a depreciation of greenbacks. The whole mystery is now explained. At a meeting of merchants and bankers held in New York a day or two ago, to urge the repeal or modification of the gold bill, Mr. Simeon B. Chittenden "referred to Instances of speculators running around town on Tuesday and inquiring of parties if they had any gold to sell. He believed that this was done for the express purpose of running up the price of gold, and the persons engaged in it were agents of Jefferson Davis!"

Wm. Swinton, the correspondent of the New York Times, writing from the Army of the Potomac, near Petersburg, under date of June 21st, gives the following: HOW WE PAILED TO TAKE PETERSBURG. When, early on Wednesday morning, the Second corps had effected the passage of the James river at Windmill Point, General Hancock was met by a dispatch from the commanding General, directing him that, if provisions had arrived, he should ration his men before proceeding towards Petersburg. Just at this time he received intermation, assembles before proceeding towards Petersburg. Just at this time he received information, seemingly reliable, and conveyed, I believe, by an engineer officer, who had just come up from the pontoon bridge, to the effect that the transports had arrived with supplies. This fact General Hancock communicated to the Commanding General, stating that he would soon begin issuing rations, and would then move forward as directed.

The information proved to be a mistake—a The information proved to be a mistakelamentable mistake—the transports had not arrived. Yet this simple error caused a delay in the movement of Honcock's corps of five hours and a half. His column joined General Smith's troops at 1 o'clock on the morning of Toursday. But had he been up earlier by the difference noted of five and a half hours, he would have reached the front at 7:39 on the evening of Wednesday, which was precisely the moment at which General Smith made his

The militia was relieved—Beaure-gard's force numbering thirty thousand men, and re-enforced by the addition of Bushrod

Johnson's command, took their places. Men of very different mettle these, from the crude soldiers to whom the defense of the works of Petersburg had been intrusted! It is true the assaults of the two succeeding days dove the enemy from their temporary position, but it was only to fall back on a line ougging the town, which Beauregard was pre-paring in the meanwhile, and which, con-stantly strengthened during the interval that has since elapsed, stands between us and the desired point as formidable an obstacle as we have yet encountered.

This line was assaulted along our entire front on Saturday last, in an engagement the details of which I shall presently recount. The attack was similar in character to that made on the lines of the Chickshominy on the 3d inst. It resulted like that, in serious loss of life, and its issue was of a similar ind-that is, we failed to carry our point, A like untoward fortune attended the at-tack of General Butler on that portion of the rebel position lying north of the Appomattor. Meeting, like Smith, with but feeble resist ance from the local troops in the attack on Thursday, he seized the Petersburg and Rich-mond railroad and destroyed it in part; but Longstreet's arrival compelled Gen. Butler to withdraw his command to his original line.

Besides your letter of invitation, I have to the courage for the accompanyor. thank you, gentlemen, for the accompanying patriotic and excellent resolutions of the De-mocracy of Louisville, under date of the 24th of May, the sentiments of which are most de-serving and forcible. The resolutions cover the entire ground of constitutional rights, e dangers that menace those rights, the ekedness of Executive usurpations, and the eater wickedness of the war which has furalso clearly enumerate the duties of the present hour, and as clearly designate the true remedy for existing evils. It seems to me a fortunate circumstance at this crisis in public affairs, and in accordance with the eternal fitness of thices, that the same patriotic State which, in 1798, indignantly rebuked the usurpations of the Federal Government at that time, should, in 1864, as indignated as the content of nantly rebuke, through any portion of its fel-low-citizens, the infinitely greater usurpations of the present day. Their arguments on this point seem o me perfectly conclusive and unanswerable Those great men saw plain enough that a government founded, like ours, on the voluntary principle, the true basis of the "Union that was," could never be preserved or perpetuated by a resort to violent measures against 'sov-ereign bodies—States in their political capaci In reviewing these coctrines of the bet ty." In reviewing these coctines of the bet-ter days of the republic, I sm glad to see you have used coercion and subjugation in the same connection. They have a like meaning, and if he purposes of those who have adopted the war policy as preferable to any other should be accomplished, we shall have not only a broken Constitution and a devistated country, but a military despatism, carabilished, on the broken Constitution and a devastated country, but a military despotism established on the ruins of both. It is owing, then, to a departure from correct principles that we have got this war upon us—a war that might and ought to have been avoided. And it should have been avoided by throwing the heresy of coercion to the winds, and substituting for brute force the wise and humane policy of conciliaorce the wise and humane policy of concilia

But I find, gentlemen, I am making this passions," No more fitting commentary on the suggestive "blood-letting" of the spring of 1851 could possibly be given. Falsely representing the war at its outset to be a war for the Union, we behold it now in its worst and most revolting shape, a hideous and malign movement for the overthrow of State rights, the division of conquered lands, military oc-cupation of the same, and the consequent change in the form of our Government. And what adds to the previous character of the whole concern is the fact that these who drive the car of war utterly refuse to listen to propositions for peace or compromise except on the ground of unconditional submission of the South. Surely this is asking something apossible of a brave people, heroically con-nding for what they doubtless believe to be ght! The war, then, is to be eternal, unless

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

The general anticipation of a few days' rest, by the army, has not been realized. During yesterday afternoon and to-day another change of line to the left has been made simultaneously with the recrossing of the command of General Smith and part of the Sixth corps to the cast of the Appomattox, alluded to in my list. The Second corps and main body of the Sixth corps abandoned their position to the northeast of Petersburg, and moved to the left by the rear of Warren's or Burnside's line for a distance of six miles, and took up a new line to the south of the Petersburg and Weldon railroad. The new shift of line to-day indicates a purpose to work as thorough a destruc-tion of the Petersburg and Weldon railroad as was wrought with the Virginia Central, on the forth Anna. The Second and Sixth corps and themselves confronted in the new line y Longstreet's and Hill's corps in an inrenched position.

THE DECAY OF VITAL POWER .- "Burleigh." of the Boston Journal, gives the following graphic sketch of well-known men :

Men will growold-some by age, some by care, some by premature decay, brought on by exposure, toil or dissipation. Man can live fast, financially and physically; in either case bankruptcy comes. I saw crowd on the steps of the Astor yesterday. They were watching the attempt of the great pugilist, Tom Hyer, to ascend into the house. His tall form was bent by disease; his once firm step tottered; his great strength had departed. With crutches and the aid of a strong arm of a friend he slowly and with anguish took one step at a time. as an infant would go up. It was gall and bitterness to him to cast his eyes around on that crowd, and see how unlike their greeting was to the crowd that cheered him on his great fight with Sullivan. By singular coincidence Morrissey came along. But how unlike Hyer. Morrissey s a professed gambler. It is his trade. He has taken care of himself and keeps within bounds. He is temperate, for his calling demands it. He dresses in elegant taste—is full jeweled—and would pass for a well-to-do banker with the upper ten, or as a professor in a college. Morrissey has taken Sara: oga under his special charge, and intends to drive this year a larger business than he did the last. He has ta-ken his headquartes already, and with an elegant exterior, smart address, cool and adroit habits, he will allure into his em- tack. brace many of our youth, and send the nes in the form of curse into many hor ruined but once manly sons.

As Hyer was attempting to go up the teps, a man sought a more quite entrance on one side of the crowd. It was N. P. Willis. "Time has laid his hand visibly on you, my friend," I said to myself. That these principles may have their influence with the Chicago Convention, where you are expecting to be represented, I would fondly hope. A great responsibility will devolve on the delegates to the National Convention—no less than that of attempting to save a Republic, which "blind passion" and hatred of sections are fast consigning to the tomb of dead Commonwealths.

A call for two hundred thousand more men will be made in a few days or weeks. It is probable that another call for 300,000 more will be made next winter. The campaign of next year will find the Federal army composed of 800,000 men in the field, while the rebels will not be able to muster over 200,000 may be a disconsolate view of the subject to those who expected that Grant would finish the war this summer. But he can't do it. The war this summer. But ne can't do u. Ine war will go on for a year or two longer, certainly till the autumn of 1865. It is cowardly to cover up the truth—and this is the truth." The question arises, what more does this Abolition correspondent know about the probable end of the war than did Saward, Lincoln and Wilson? If we have 700 000 men now in the field and make two consciputors, one for and Wilson? If we have 100 too men now in the field and make two conscriptions, one for 200,000 and another for 300,000, and then have but 800,000 men to begin another year's camprigu, we can only inter that the Abolitionists intend to have at least 400,000 used up in Southern "slaughter pens" between this and that time. It is certainly not very complimentary to Northern valor and endurance to begin tast time. Its certainly not very complimen-tary to Northe. I valor and endurance to keep acknowledging that we have no hope or chance of success unless we put four North-ern men against each Southern mae. If the Southerners are a half-starved, demoralized gang, and it is to take four Northern men to whip one South on, as this Abolition authority states, what painful and unpleasant infer-ences must be drawn as to the fighting qualities of Northern men! But this is not so The Southerners are as brave men as ever went to battle. Our men have fearful odds to contend against, and the war, as now managed, may not be closed in five years.—[Detroit Free Press.

THE STARVATION IN VIRGINIA.-The New York Tribune's correspondent writes from General Meade's headquarters:

If any one has formed a picture of starving, foodless, defenseless, desolated South, let him look for a moment on the true picture of the country which our army has occupied for several weeks. With the exception of a few poor families, who often make pretense of destitution to save themselves from robbery at the hands of our soldiers, the country is abundantly supplied with everything. Grana-ries are filled with corn until they overflow. Gardens grow all the luxuries of the season. Flocks and herds have not deserted the pastures and hills. Corydon Thrysis est their country messes in the shade. Fowls frequent the barn yards, and dove cotes are at abundoned by their meek and inso-cent inmates. Our horses wade through clover knee deep, and the growing wheat brushes their sides as they pass through it. Immense tracts are filled with thriving corn fields, and one whose imagination has been filled, as mine one whose imagination has been fired, as mine had, with pictures of want and desolation, would believe that time had run back and brought again the former days of peace and contentment. Even the maldens stand in the contentment. Even the maleens stand in the doorway and smile on us as we pass, in spite of their hatred of Yankees in the abstract. We have very serious doubt, engendered by our late experience, of ever starving the Confederacy, and we look for the end only by hard fighting, in connection with General Grant's left flank strategy.

The Tribune's special from the Army of the Potemac, of Saturday, June 25, A. M., says: During two hours of yesterday morning, from six to eight o'clock, the earth trembled to the thunder of more than one hundred cannon. Baldy Smith was attacked. It will be remembered that he holds a position next to the Appomattox, within less than a mile of the city. His line stretches along the plain at right angles with the river, while the rebels have undisputed possession of the bank opposite, and a long distance in his rear of that bank. A special to the Philadelphia Inquirer, under date of the 24th, says that on yesterday afternoon General Wright, with the Sixth corps, made a movement to the left, and reached the Weldon road, of which he destroyed some five miles. Fires were built along the track, which destroyed the ties and at the same time warped the iron so as to make it unfit for further use. Having accomplished his object, he returned to his former position.

About two years ago this individual appeared in this city in condition of lamentable impecunicity. He was the undisputed owner of twenty-five dollars—nothing more. However, to him, as to others, Fortune changed her face. By fortunate strokes and persistent efforts, rendered singularly eff cital by his natural sharpness, and that prehensible quality of mind which enables one to selze opportunities at a fitting enables one to seize opportunities at a fitting moment for their subjection, he won his way to affluence. Here, almost periodically, are even representations, not only by the ama-eur stars of exclusive circles, but by genuine professionals, who essay the leading roles and give coherency where incoherency might otherwise result. The price of tickets is five dollars, and it is said that the average proceeds of the entertainments will not fall far telow the very handsome sum of three thousand dollars. This amount is immediately remitted to the Sanitary Commission fund. Of course the tickets never find their way outside the peculiar circles. The audience are side the peculiar circles. The audience are, therefore, strictly select.—[N. Y. Cor. Phila.

MAXIMS ON MONEY .- The art of living easily, as to money, is to pitch your scale of living one degree below your means. Comfort and enjoyment are more dependent upon easiness in the detail of expenditure than upon any degrees in he scale. Guard against false associations of pleasure with expenditurethe notion that because pleasure can be purchased with money, therefore money cannot be spent without enjoyment. What a thing costs a man is no true measure of what it is worth to him; and yet how often is his appreciation governed by no other standard, as if there were a pleasure in expenditure per se. Let yourself feel a want before you provide against it. You are more assured that it is real want, and it is worth while to feel it a little in order to feel relief from it. When you are undecided as to which of the two courses you would like best, choose the cheapest. This when a man is in want of objects, it occurs to him that they are to be had for money, and he invents expenditure in order to pass the time.—[Taylor.

Large additions and adornments have been added to the houses and romantic grounds of the premises—the spacious and comfurtable cottages at cleansed and renewated—the walks and howers whose dense foliage is the favorite resort of myriads of forest songsters, all rimmed and arranged for the sportive pleasures of the young and gay.

Ou table will be abundantly supplied with all the deleaces and substantials which the country affords. Our ramanements for recreation and amusements are ample as usual in the watering season. Our servants are disciplined in the duties and politic attention due to visitors and guests. All these, together with the health-invigorating qualities of the water, as shown by chemical examination, we trust will secure to our estallishment alliberal share of public patronase.

The routes for reaching this place are by railroad to Garriott's Landing by the river, 5% miles out; and to Madison, ind., 10 miles out, at all of which places visitors heret fore have always found conveyances; and hesides local conveyances are always on hand in the village adjoining the oprings.

TOBACCO NOTICE.

THE HEAVY DECLINE IN CURRENCY AND THE consequent great advance in our expenses, compel us to increase our rates for seiling Tobacco. In addition to the fee of 4 85 per hogshead, we will, on and after the 15th inst, charge the sellers of Tobacco one per cent, upon the amount of their sales. that being one and one-half per cent, less commission than charged by the New Orleans and New York Tobacco Merchants when currency was at par. This advance is to be regarded as temporary, to be reduced when circumstances will justify. We also agree to discharge from our employment all and every agent not permanently connected with our respective Warehouses, and will not, after this date, pay, directly or indirectly, any railroad depot agent, or wharfboat man any commission whatever.

AND CANNOT DO HARM, AND CANNOT DO HARM, To the most delicate constitut LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS will certainly produce the regular return of nature, if taken a day or two before the expected period, and it is a maxim in the profession.

Bear in mind that I guarantee my DROPS TO CURB impression of the Menses, from whatever cause, though are should be taken to accertain if pregnancy be the ause, as these DROPS would be sure to produce miscariage, if taken while in that situation, and all are canned against using them, as I - ish it distinctly understood that I do not hold myself responsible when used nder such effectuationage. To Married Ladies

BE WISE IN TIME. Let not disease desiroy your constitution. Try a bottle of my PERIODICAL DROPS, and you will be satisfied that I am no impostor. Tell your afflicted friend what restored the bloom of health to your cheeks, and thereby sonfer a favor more valuable than gold. For painful or scanty Menstruation, it is just the thing. I saw now in my mind an lestance of a lady who had been suffire room painful Menstruation two or three years, confining her to her room each time. She had applied to several eminent physicians, without relief, when one bottle of my DROPS entirely cured her. Private Boxes #5 and #8. Dress Circle and Parquets 75c. Second Tier 25c. Gallery 20c. "It is only half an hour since I went up stairs, and he has not come in. I took her some broth up at noon, but she hardly touched it, and I was up again at three; she was asleep then, and at five she said she would not want anything more."

"Poor lady! This time of year, and neither fire nor warm clothes, and even not a decent bed to lie on; and yet I am sure she is somehody or other. Have you

Then came a knock at the door, and the woman admitted the old man they had just spoken of, whose grizzled beard fell down on his tarnished velvet coat. The hostess sadly wanted to have a little gossip with him, but he passed by, and, bidding them a short "good night," groped his way up the steep and crooked staircase. On entering the chamber above a feeble voice in-

"I could not help it," he said. "I have been copying manuscript, and, as I was on my way here, a servant met me, who was to fetch me to raise the horoscope of two ladies who were passing through; they were ladies whom I have known before. I thought I could get a little money to pay for some samples which will be of service to you.' "I am cold."

"It is fever cold. I will make you some-thing which you must take directly."

The flame of a small tin lamp sufficed to heat some water, and the patient, having taken what the old man provided, was dili-gently covered up by him with all the clothes and articles of dress he could find. He stood by her motionless, till he perceived that she was fast asleep, and indeed long after; he then retired into a small closet, and sought repose on the hard floor.

The next morning the lady was so much better that her attendant proposed she should leave the house for a moment or two, and he succeeded in getting her ferth as far as the Place St. Cecilia. It was seldom that she left the house, for, notwithstanding the meanness of her dress, there was that about her carriage which rendered it difficult to avoid unpleasant obser-

"Do you see that person yonder?" she said, suddenly. "If I am not much mis-taken, it is certainly the Duke of Guise." The stranger's attention had also been attracted, and he now approached them.
"Parbleu!" said he, "why, that is Mascali. What, are you married?"

"He does not know me," sighed the lady.
"I must indeed be altered." Mascali had, however, whispered a single word in the Duke's ear, and he started as if struck by a thunderbolt; but instantly recovering himself, he hastily uncovered and bewed nearly to the ground.

"I beg your forgiveness," he said; "but my eyes are growing so weak, and I could little expect to have the honor of meeting you-" my present circumstances. Have you been ong in Cologne ?" "Three days. I am on my way from Italy. I took refuge there when our common enemy drove me forth and confiscated all my earthly goods.' "And what are your advices from France? Is the helm still in the hands of that wretched catiff?"

"He is in the zenith of his power." "See, my lord duke, your fortunes and my own are much alike. You are the son a man who, had he not too much despised danger, might well have set the crown Grand Opening upon 'is own head; and I, once the queen of the mightiest nation of the universe—and now both of us are alike. But adieu," she said, suddenly, and drawing herself up, "the sight of you, my lord duke, has re-freshed me much, and I pray that fortune may once more shine upon your steps."

"Permit me to attend your majesty A slight color tinged the lady's features as she answered with a gently commanding tone, "Leave us, my lord duke; it is our

The next morning a knock at the door announced a person inquiring for Mon-sieur Mascali; she had a small packet for him, and also a billet. Inside this was distinctly written: "Two hundred louisdors constitute the And a large stock of whole of my fortune; one hundred I send Gloves, for your use. Guise."

And the packet contained a hundred louisdors. The sum thus obtained sufficed to supply the wants of the pair two long But the last louis had been changed and the lady and her companion were still without friendly succor. The shoemaker and his wife had undertaken a journey to Aix-la-Chapelle, to take up some small legacy. It was on the 13th of February, 1642. A low sound or moaning might have been heard issuing from the garret; a withered female form, more like a skeleton than a thing of flesh and blood, was lying on a wretched bed of straw in the agonics. of death. The moans grew more indistinct; and a slight rattling in the throat was at length the only audible sound, and this also ceased. An hour later an old man, dressed in rags and tatters, entered the chamber. One only word had escaped his lips as he tumbled up the falling staircase:
"Nothing! Nothing!" He drew near the bed listlessly, but in a moment he seized an arm of the corpse with an almost con-vulsive motion, and letting itsuddenly fall, he cried: "Dead, dead, of hunger, cold and

LONG RUN, SHELBY COUNTY, KY., January 31, 18-4. maye seen your machine are perfectly pleased in eve respect. Yours, with respect. JOHN L. GREGG. P. S. As I have only the Mower, I cannot say muca about the Reaper.

GRAHAMTOWN, KY., January 26, 1864. Mr. J. D. Bondarant—Dear Sir: I hereby certify with pleasure to the good qualities of Ball's Combined Reaper and Mower, bought of you last season (1883), for W. O and O. M. And-ron. I fully test d is quadities on all kinds of ground—very rough hill-sides and story bottems—for heavy locked wheat, light grain, and light and heavy arass, and I gave perfect satisfaction in all its operations. And I do certify that it is the best Reaping and Mowing Machine I ever saw, and is by far the best I have used on this farm.

Respectfully yours.

JAMES GEDDES.

J. D. Bondurant, Louisville, Ky.: The undersigne each of us having used E. Ball's improved Reaper at Mower, would recommend the same as being wo, thy patronace. We would say that the machine both as Reaper and Mow r, exceeds our expectations. It run very easy for a team of two horses in the heaviest whe when cutting a swath six feet wide. It delivers it grain at the side of the platform with ease to the rake and in good condition for bi-dreg. We would furth add, that we have had the purchase of machines in cotemplation for several years, and during that lime has endeavored to post ourselves as well as we could as the merits of the different machines sold and used our neighborhood, and floally concluded that the B. Machine, it things considered came the nersest to videas of what a Reapirg and Mowing Machine ought be, and accordingly purchased that Machine, and affeaving used them, we are satisfied that we made that yery best selection we could have made.
